POPULAR LITERARY MAN MEETS DEATH VERY SUDDENLY.

Corydon W. Higgins, associate editor of the Salt Lake Mining Review, was instantly killed yesterday by inhaling poisonous fumes from a room that was being disinfected at his apartments at the Oxford flats, on North Temple street. The lifeless body of Higgins was found lying on the floor of the room at 3:30 o'clock yesterday after-that, not knowing that the room was being fumigated, Higgins opened the door and entered and that he was immediately overcome by the fumes. He probably entered the room shortly after o'clock yesterday afternoon, When the body was found, two hours later there was no sign of life.

Higgins had been living in apartmen No. 3 in the Oxford flats and was planning to move upstairs to apartment No The change was to have been made immediately, but some delay was ocea sioned through the fumigation of the entire building by the Western Disin feetant company. Yesterday afternoon unknown to Higgins, the company began to fumigate apartment No. 4. A M. Rice, the agent of the disinfectant Party Traveling From Washington to company, called at the Higgins flat yesterday forenoon and asked Mrs. flat until 3:30 in the afternoon, as it was to be fumigated. In the meantime, however, Higgin had gone to his office and knew nothing about the fumigation. Shortly before 1 o'clock he left his office for his home. In three hours his dead body was found at the entrance to his new flat. It is presumed that when he left the office he went directly to his nome. When he opened the door the first inhalation of the deadly fumes probably rendered

Body Is Discovered.

At 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, when Mr. Rice arrived to open the windows to air the room he found the body of Mr. Higgins lying just inside the door. He brought the body out to the hall as quickly as possible and attempted to revive the man. It was evident, however, that the young man had been dead for some time.

Justice Stanley A. Hanks, acting coro ner, was called to the scene. After the body had been exammed it was removed to the undertaking rooms of Jo- seconds over the pacers. seph William Taylor, at the order of the coroner. It is probable that an inquest will be held today.

Trouble Threatened at Mt. Pleasant in Street Contract Work-Storm Injures Crops. (Special to The Herald-Republican.)

Mt. Pleasant, Aug. 17 .- The grading for the cement sidewalks in this city was begun yesterday by Italians, whom the contractors, the Wheelwright Construction company of Ogden, have sent in here. These men were sent here for the pur-pose of working on the mixer and the machinery, while local men were to have been employed for the grading and other work. The machine and complete out-fit of the company has been lost on the railroad somewhere between here and Ogden. The Italians were therefore put to work on the grading, much to the disgust of some of our local laborers, who became quite indignant and threatened to turn the quite indignant and threatened to turn the hose on the foreign laborers.
